

Drink AOX – The most effective natural antioxidant alkaline water

Cancer Cells Cannot Survive In an Alkaline Environment

Maintaining a diet that promotes a alkaline pH within the body is a good protection against cancer. Drinking AOX Antioxidant Alkaline water ensures that the body pH will lead to higher alkaline pH.

Our body pH level tends to be more acidic due to our diet, hence making alkaline water even more critical for the prevention of cancer. Many people believe that an alkaline pH not only can prevent the body against cancer, but can also stop its development.

Studies have shown that cancer cells and tumors thrive best in an acidic environment. It is found in lab tests that when we reduced the level of acidity , the growth of tumors also slowed down. This shows that cancer cells in the body can be affected by an overall alkaline environment.

Drinking natural antioxidant alkaline water raises the body pH alkalinity, this will reduce the chance for cancer cells to develop. Hence, it is possible to experience good health and to live a cancer free life when we make adjustments to our diet.

Cancer cells cannot thrive in the presence of oxygen. With high acidity pH in the body, the oxygen level is low which allow cancer cells the opportunity to thrive and multiple. As a result, tissues and cells within the body are more susceptible to damage and unhealthy conditions when the body's pH is too acidic.

When body tissues have a alkaline pH, they are able to hold much more oxygen as compared to tissues with a acidic pH. An alkaline pH within the body also makes it easier for cells to discard waste and toxins. By maintaining an alkaline pH in your body, you will protect your cells and prevent the development and growth of cancerous cells.

Start your family with AOX antioxidant alkaline water for better health.
