

AOX WATER IS OFFICIALLY IN FASHION

Daniel Boey, Singapore's foremost fashion and lifestyle event curator, has recently embraced the benefits of AOX Water.

Daniel Boey has always been plagued with health problems. In addition to suffering from asthma when he was young, he has sensitive skin and suffers from a host of allergies including seafood, eggs, milk, wheat – and even his own perspiration. His busy schedule also means he is often fatigued and has little time for exercise.

The youthful-looking 49-year-old became interested in alkaline water while filming in KL. A crew member raved about the improvements in her constitution and appearance after regularly drinking it, claiming she was now less fatigued, less inclined to breakouts and brighter-eyed.

Coincidentally, Daniel had read about AOX Water and cast his skepticism aside to make an appointment for a complimentary blood analysis.

MORE THAN FASHION IN HIS BLOOD

Given his host of health problems, Daniel was not surprised to find his blood analysis results revealed high levels of toxins.

When he did a follow-up test just 20 minutes after drinking AOX alkaline water, he was amazed at how much clearer his blood looked. The clustered blood cells had completely separated, and the spiky durian-shaped cells that had been damaged by free radicals had been restored to smooth, round ball shapes. "I decided immediately I wanted it in my daily routine," he said.

ALTERING MODEL BEHAVIOUR

Known in the fashion industry for both his caring nature and exacting standards, Daniel plans to introduce AOX water to the models

he works with. "Many models smoke, giving rise to dull lifeless skin. Hopefully this will help them maintain a bright dewy complexion despite their bad habits and hectic schedules, and introduce them to a healthier lifestyle. I want to suggest not just ingesting the alkaline water, but to spritz it as well, so they can use it to refresh themselves on the go," said Daniel.

After all, the best accessories for any outfit are bright eyes, a big smile and a clear complexion. From Daniel's experience, you can get them all from AOX water!
